IF JUNE COULD TALK...

Just like the weather, things are heating up at Wood Iron Eatery this month.

We finished the new construction of the railing for the deck and have some gorgeous flowers out there just waiting to relax and soak up the sun with you.

Cheffrey just got back from his trip to Quebec, where he trained on the ins and outs of espresso machine techniques and mechanics. Since then, he has been working diligently on fine tuning our own machines to bring you espresso and coffee drinks that will titillate your taste buds!

Thank you for signing up for updates on woodironeatery.com and for being part of the Wood Iron family!

Speaking of taste buds, Jeffrey is currently finalizing the menu this week, so we are looking forward to opening up and getting your feedback. It will be a diverse menu, so there is sure to be something to suit your fancy.

Meanwhile, Lori is working on getting the ordering and register system all set up and ready to go, which is no small feat for a newbie. She has also given baby Zoey her eviction notice, and hopes to have her out into the world by the end of June/early July.

On summer solstice, June 21, Jeffrey will be doing the amuse bouche course for the Farm to Table Feast in Fayetteville. Amuse bouche is french for “amuse the mouth,” so he will create the starter bite to get your appetite flowing for the rest of the courses.

The Farm to Table Feast will take over Fayetteville that evening, with tables set up all the way down main street. Your favorite local restaurants are teaming up to prepare each course, using only local ingredients from local farmers.

“Barbecue may not be the road to world peace, but it’s a start.”

There will be live music, a farmer’s market, and much more fun to be had. Proceeds for the event will be supporting the Gorge Grown Local Food Promotion Initiative - a great cause! Tickets are being sold on Eventbrite at: <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/farm-to-table-feast-tickets-46803550680> and more information can be found on Instagram or Facebook on the “Visit Fayetteville, WV” pages.

Assuming that baby Zoey meets her eviction deadline, Wood Iron Eatery is still shooting to open mid to late July. We so look forward to seeing you then!
